PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

By Kim McKeon

Are there any surprises in your family tree? You'll never know until you start looking. Even if your ancestors did not lead extraordinary lives some of the surprises that you discover in your research may astound you and leaving you eager to discover even more surprises through genealogy research. For me, when my Norwegian relative translated the bygdebok or farm records of my maternal Norwegian ancestor in Hallingdal valley and told me that my great great grandfather had poisoned a fellow farmer's cow and then stabbed the farmer which led to his imprisonment I was shocked. Then I found out this great great grandfather "disappeared" and supposedly left Norway with the last written line of the bygdebok farm record indicating that supposedly he was in Minnesota in 1885. I still haven't found him in Minnesota records. I also discovered that one of my ancestors was an informant in the notorious Salem witch trials. I always wonder what it would have been like to meet some of the more colorful characters we all discover in our family genealogy research. I am always most interested in what motivated my ancestors to make certain decisions—notably to leave their homelands and make the dangerous journey to America.

This musing leads me to thinking about the SVGS Annual Banquet coming up on April 3rd 2025. SVGS is fortunate to host Arley Fadness who is going to present on his recently published book "The Ku Klux Klan in South Dakota". What is also interesting is that one of our Board of Director members, Ryan Tucker, has an ancestor who was a prominent South Dakota Klan participant and whose Klan funeral in Woodlawn Cemetery features on the cover of Arley's book as shown to the right.

Ryan has also agreed to talk about his research regarding this "surprise" discovery and how he personally feels about having a Klan member in his family ancestry. So, I hope most of you can attend our SVGS Annual Banquet to learn more about Klan history in SD and researching it from Arley and Ryan. Remember, one of your SVGS membership benefits is assistance with genealogical research and our librarian, Lynette Trainer, and our Correspondence and Research Board member, Lori Mohr, are happy to assist you.

SVGS LIBRARY NOTES

by Lynette Trainer

Happy New Year. I would like to thank the volunteers at the library. Tuesday, Kathleen Nagel works on the obituaries we collect. Wednesday, Sara Crawford is working on a database for the Family and Minnehaha County Family histories. Thursday, Luci Feenstra is busy putting spine labels on new books, filing their index cards, then making room for those books on our shelves. Friday, Sue Eckert double checks the Dewey numbers in the books. Also, the library committee has been working hard to put together a procedure on how the library and books are to be taken care of.

In the near future, the library will be making videos showcasing what resources we have in our library. I think you will agree, the library is a jewel! Also, over the next few months, we plan to hold various events at the library. Our March event will be about your Irish ancestors, St. Patrick's Day anyone? October is usually Family History month with most Societies, and we will also celebrate with some surprises.

We are always looking for volunteers. There are jobs on the computer, taking inventory of the collection, putting together databases on our upcoming new website, and any project you would like to see the library accomplish. So, think about it and put your unique skills and help make the library one that we can all be proud of.

Hope to see you at the library. Lynette

Presented by: Sarah Busse Spencer, PhD

Are you one of the millions of Americans whose ancestors who came from Germany? What do we mean by Germany? This talk will set the stage by describing social, cultural, political and economic conditions in the areas that were or became Germany.

Then we will discuss useful sources for finding the town or region in Germany they came from, followed by a brief introduction to the German civil and religious records available online.

Finally, if you have a German name you have been stuck on, bring the name and date and let's dig into your German roots together!

APRIL PROGRAM: THE KU KLUX KLAN IN SOUTH DAKOTA

By: Arley Fadness

The SVGS Annual meeting will be held on 3 April 2025. This year's speaker is Arley Fadness, a prolific writer and South Dakota resident. He will be discussing his latest book, this one about the Ku Klux Klan in South Dakota.

About the Book

In the 1920s, a reborn Ku Klux Klan slithered into South Dakota. Bold at times, the group intimidated citizens in every county. KKK anti-Catholic sentiment resulted in the murder of Father Arthur Belknap of Lead. Idealized Gutzon Borglum, sculptor of Mount Rushmore, operated as a white supremacist and KKK leader. In 1925, animosity between the KKK and Fort Meade soldiers came to a clash one night in Sturgis. The clatter of two borrowed .30-caliber Browning cooled machine guns split the air over the heads of a Klan gathering across the valley. Author Arley Fadness follows the Klan's trail throughout the Mount Rushmore State.

About the Author

A retired draftsman and clergyman born and raised in Webster, South Dakota, Arley Kenneth Fadness has authored several historical and religious books. Among them are Capturing the Younger Brothers Gang in the Northern Plains: The Untold Story of Heroic Teen Asle Sorbel; A Long, Long Road Back to Love; Balloons Aloft: Flying South Dakota Skies; and Six Spiritual Needs in America Today. He is an active writer and presenter of history/cultural programs for the South Dakota Humanities.

GENETIC GENEALOGY (DNA) THEME OF JUNE 2025 SEMINAR

Genetic genealogy is a field of genealogy and family history research that combines genealogical DNA tests and additional genealogy methods to discover how individuals are related. For many genealogists interpreting DNA tests results can be a challenge. To assist in understanding genetic genealogy, SVGS and the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) are jointly hosting a DNA Genealogy conference June 6th and 7th that will address these challenges and hopefully provide some answers for attendees about their DNA test results.

Our keynote speaker is Patti Lee Hobbs, CG, an instructor and professional genealogist specializing in several geographical regions as well as in identifying distant ancestry with DNA and documentary sources. The agenda for the DNA conference has not been established yet but will include several of the following lectures. We are hoping that many SVGS members will attend this conference which will present information that is relevant to the research of their family trees.

DNA Triage

Working with our DNA test results can seem like we're trying to tame an octopus with regenerating arms popping up everywhere! How do we focus and prioritize to make the most of the remarkable tool we now have available to help us reach our research goals.

Problem Solving with DNA: Pathways and Roadblocks to Success

DNA testing has given genealogists a unique tool to help identify ancestors. Understanding principles of using DNA can set you on the path to success; but not all problems may be solved. The genealogist encounters roadblocks. What are these barriers to success and can they be overcome?

Writing up DNA Conclusions for Enduring Benefit

In some ways, DNA evidence is different from other types of genealogical evidence. Just as we are frustrated by undocumented family histories that may have been informed by reliable witnesses, future generations will be frustrated with us for declaring DNA connections without explanations. This lecture will demonstrate methods of presenting DNA evidence with documentary evidence to produce a written work product of enduring quality.

Extending DNA Evidence: More is Better

Passively observing DNA results and gathering only obvious matches to prove a relationship can often fail to yield sufficient evidence or even to make the most of the DNA. DNA results walk hand-in-hand with genealogical information of matching test takers. More aggressive researchers will make the most of many tools to collect and analyze both documentary and DNA data to extend their evidence to make conclusions more robust.

Using Y DNA to Reach Back in time for Your Male Ancestors

Y-Chromosome DNA testing is one of the most straightforward ways to connect to a distant ancestor when other evidence is lacking. Not only your own patrilineal line is relevant. This session discusses understanding the test results and developing strategies for working with those results to establish relationships.

DNA Illuminates a Woman Hidden in the Shadows of her Father and Husbands

This case study describes the process and methodology leading to a written conclusion identifying a nameless ancestor using DNA and traditional evidence.

RESEARCHING NORWEGIAN GENEALOGY DURING STEVNE

By SVGS member & stevne attendee, Sue Eckert

Let's begin by learning a few Norwegian terms: A stevne is a gathering of people sharing a common interest. These people may or may not belong to a specific Bygdelag, aka a Lag. A Bygdelag is a group of people sharing an interest in a particular geographic area of Norway. Members of a Lag usually join a Lag or Lags representing area/s of origin for their Norwegian ancestors. Some Lags hold stevne with other Lags. The Lags bring books and other resources to stevne and Lag genealogists assist stevne attendees research their ancestors.

Half of my Norwegian ancestor families emigrated from the Hardanger Sør-Fjord area of Hordaland. Another ancestral family was from the Strand area of Rogaland and another from Trondheim in Trøndelag. I joined, in order, Hardangerlag, Rogalandslag and Trønderlag. The first lags I joined hold stevne together as two of the lags making up Vestlandslag. Trønderlag, with several other individual lags, hold stevne as Flere (translated to 'multiple' or 'many') Lag stevne.

Let me tell you what happens during any stevne, because it's not all genealogy! There may be differences due to the various geographic areas where they are held. There may be tours of the area with visits to museums, historical societies, genealogy libraries, unique points of interest, yummy Norwegian treats, live entertainment and more. Some of the lags even organize and take tours of Norway.

Plans are being finalized for multiple 2025 stevne and I have made motel reservations for attending two. Spicer MN (near Willmar) is the location for Vestlandslag Stevne June 11-13 (Wed-Fri). The main venue is Hope Presbyterian Church at Spicer, but attendees have a choice of multiple hotel or motel accommodations. Flere Lag Stevne is August 5-8 (Tues-Fri) in Onalaska WI (near LaCrosse) at Stoney Creek Hotel.

YEARBOOKS FOUND IN SVGS LIBRARY

School Annuals have a lot of information within their pages. Are you looking for a family member's photograph? Perhaps wondering what your ancestor may have studied when younger? We may have the answers to those questions and more.

The SVGS Library contains not ten, not twenty but rather hundreds of school annuals from all over this area; middle schools, high schools, colleges and universities. We also have church directories as well as organization rosters. Our collections will never be complete as we are adding to them frequently.

Below is a compilation of what is on our shelves as of late fall 2024. Stop in and browse through our collection. You may find some new interesting facts to add to your family's narrative.

FINDING FINAL RESTING PLACE OF YOUR ANCESTORS

Written and submitted by Robert Black

Introduction: Our dead relatives' remains may lie scattered among the numerous places they lived, they migrated to, and finally settled. Some lie in prominent cemeteries near their final location, some in lonely family cemeteries, and some may have been buried in shallow graves along the many migration routes or the many battlefields of the Civil War or Indian Wars. Below we investigate the most likely locations to find burial information about those forebears. We will start locally and expand on resources across the nation and internationally.

In-House Resources: The Sioux Valley Genealogical Society Library has the following resources available to help find your dead ancestors:

- Works Progress Administration (WPA) listing for Minnehaha County, SD, contains cemetery listings from cemetery opening through approximately 1939-1940.
- Graves Registration Project of the WPA contains veteran listings from cemetery opening through approximately 1939-1940.
- Grave Record of Minnehaha County cemeteries contains grave listings by cemetery through 1973-1974. It does not have information about burials in the large Sioux Falls cemeteries.
- Citibank Abandoned Cemetery Project contains information about burials in some of the abandoned cemeteries in Minnehaha County.

Other Local Resources:

- Cemetery records held by individual cemeteries
- On-site displays of burials at some of the cemeteries
- Sextons' records

South Dakota:

The South Dakota Gravestone Photo Project (<https://southdakotagravestones.org/>) has over 269,000 gravestone photographs. The mission of this project is to capture digital images of gravestones; however they are not a grave registration site. As decades pass - many stones become harder, if not impossible, to read the inscriptions they originally contained. By archiving the images of both old and new stones, we can help document these important records and assist researchers using this valuable resource.

Other States:

Find a Grave (www.findagrave.com) has lists of cemeteries in each state. On their website click "Cemeteries" for listings. Explore any interesting cemetery.

Nationally:

Several of the familiar genealogical sites provide access to burial records. These can be useful in finding cemeteries where an ancestor is buried. Many cemeteries now have online access to records and photographs of gravesites and markers. In addition to finding a local cemetery through genealogical sites or online searches, two primary sources are available to help find a grave.

- Find a Grave (www.findagrave.com) This website claims over 238 million memorials. Access is free and the search is relatively easy to use. Ideally, the search wants first name, middle name, last name, year born, year died, and the cemetery location.
- National Cemetery Administration (NCA) (Department of Veterans Affairs) (www.cem.va.gov). The NCA website contains a wealth of information regarding veteran burials within their system. Burial in a VA national cemetery is open to all members of the armed forces and Veterans who have met minimum active duty service requirements, as applicable, and were discharged under conditions other than dishonorable. VA provides the gravesite, grave liner, opening and closing of the grave, government headstone or marker, U.S. burial flag, Presidential Memorial Certificate and perpetual care of the gravesite at no cost to the family. VA operates 155 national cemeteries and 34 soldiers' lots and monument sites in 42 states and Puerto Rico. More than 4 million Americans, including Veterans of every war and conflict, are buried in VA's national cemeteries. VA also provides funding to establish, expand, improve and maintain 122 Veterans cemeteries in 49 states and territories including tribal trust lands, Guam, and Saipan. For Veterans not buried in a VA national cemetery, VA provides headstones, markers or medallions to commemorate their service. Use the Find a Cemetery tab to find a VA cemetery in each state. Use the Grave Locator tab to find your ancestors location.

- The U.S. Department of the Army maintains the following cemeteries: Arlington and the Soldiers' & Airmens' Home national cemeteries, both in Greater Washington, D.C. Additionally, the Army oversees cemeteries at military installations and its academy at West Point, NY. A few years ago, the Department of the Army transferred administration of several cemeteries to the Department of Veterans Affairs.
- The U.S. Navy and the U.S. Air Force manage cemeteries at their military installations and service academies.

- US Department of the Interior, National Park Service administers the following cemeteries:

Andersonville National Historic Site,
Andrew Johnson National Historic Site,
Antietam National Battlefield,
Civil War Defenses of Washington,

Colonial National Historical Park,
Fort Donelson National Battlefield,
Fredericksburg & Spotsylvania National Military Park,
Gettysburg National Military Park,
Jean Lafitte National Historical Park and Preserve,
Little Bighorn Battlefield National Monument,
Petersburg National Battlefield,
Shiloh National Military Park,
Stones River National Battlefield,
Vicksburg National Military Park

- Internationally: With the exception of the American Battle Monuments Commission locations, we will not address burial sites outside the confines of the fifty states.

The American Battle Monuments Commission (ABMC) administers, operates and maintains 26 permanent American military cemeteries and 31 federal memorials, monuments and markers, which are located in 17 foreign countries, the U.S. Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, and the British Dependency of Gibraltar. Four of the memorials are located within the United States. These cemeteries and memorials, most of which commemorate the service and sacrifice of Americans who served in World War I and World War II, are among the most beautiful and meticulously maintained shrines in the world.

The website: ABMC Burial and Memorialization Statistics site tells about the number of men and women we honor around the world.

The cemetery locations include the following. Monuments are not listed.

IS READING CURSIVE YOUR SUPERPOWER?

Elizabeth Weise - USA TODAY

Posted online 12 and 16 January 2025 - Edited

If you can read cursive, the National Archives would like your skills.

The National Archives has more than 200 years worth of U.S. documents in need of transcribing (or at least classifying) and the vast majority from the Revolutionary War era are handwritten in cursive – requiring people who know the flowing, looped form of penmanship.

“Reading cursive is a superpower,” said Suzanne Isaacs, a community manager with the National Archives Catalog in Washington, D.C. She is part of the team that coordinates the more than 5,000 Citizen Archivists helping the Archive to read and transcribe some of the 300 million plus digitized objects in its catalog. And they're always looking for volunteers with this increasingly rare skill.

Those records range from the Revolutionary War to the 1950 Census.

“We create tasks where we ask volunteers to help with transcribing or tagging records in our catalog,” Isaacs said. The ability to Read long-hand script is a huge help because so many of the documents are written using it.

To volunteer, all that’s required is to sign up online and then jump in. “There's no application,” she said. “Choose a record that hasn’t been done, read the instructions then just start. It's easy to do for a half hour a day or a week.”

Cursive is seldom used

In the past, most American students began learning to write in cursive in third grade, making it a rite of passage, said Jaime Cantrell, a professor of English at Texas A&M University

– Texarkana. Her students take part in the Citizen Archivist work, putting their skills reading old documents to work.

While many of her students today learned cursive in school, they never use it and seldom read it, she said. She can tell because she writes feedback on their papers in cursive.

Some of her students aren't even typing anymore. Instead, they're just using talk-to-text technology or even artificial intelligence. "I know that because there's no punctuation, it reads like a stream of consciousness.

Cursive is still a skill for some

California passed a law in 2023 requiring that "cursive or joined italics" be taught for first through sixth grades. The law's author said it was so students could read primary source historical documents.

That's exactly how Cantrell's students use it. One of the classes she teaches involves deciphering documents written in the 18th and 19th centuries – and one of their projects is to get involved in the National Archive's transcription work.

"There is certainly a learning curve," said Cantrell. "But my students stick it out. They feel like they're making a difference.

AI can only go so far with cursive

AI is starting to be able to read cursive but only with human help, said National Archive's Nancy Sullivan.

The Archives has been working with FamilySearch, a genealogical nonprofit operated by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. FamilySearch offers researchers free genealogical software and a website for searching and has access to many historical documents.

FamilySearch developed an AI program that reads handwritten documents. However, a person is still required to do the final edit.

"There's usually some mistakes," she said. "So we call it 'extracted text' and our volunteers have to look it over and compare it to the original." Only once a volunteer has looked the document over is it considered an actual transcription.

And AI can't always decipher the often problematic documents their volunteers deal with, said Isaacs. Sometimes they've been torn, smudged, folded, or dog-eared. In the case of Revolutionary War pension applications, widows had to prove they were married so they often included handwritten family tree pages torn from the family Bible.

Not to mention simple poor penmanship. "Some of the Justices of the Peace, their handwriting is atrocious," said volunteer Christine Ritter, from Fairless Hills, Pennsylvania. "There are cross-outs, things written on the other side that bleed through, strange and inventive spellings, old forms of letters (a double S was sometimes written as a "long s" and looked like an F) and even children's doodles over top. And many obsolete terms and legal words that can stump even the most erudite readers.

No cursive? No problem!

According to the Archive's Isaacs, "volunteers don't have to start out knowing cursive, you can learn along the way." It helps – but it's not a necessity.

For example, there's a "no cursive required" option for those reading Revolutionary War pension records. Instead of reading and transcribing the records, volunteers can also help append "tags" to records that have already been transcribed by other Citizen Archivists so that they're easier to search.

You can also pick it up as you go along, Ritter said.

"When they first sent me a document I thought, 'Oh my gosh, I can't read this. I got nervous.

But the longer you do them the easier it gets," she said.

Ritter's working on Revolutionary War pension files for soldiers who served at the Battle of Guildford Courthouse on March 15, 1781. As she works, she imagines how much it will mean to families to find something so old about one of their relatives.

She says she once prided herself on her perfect penmanship but today says her handwriting is "atrocious." Still, she can read cursive with the best of them and it's become a wonderful hobby.

He was baptized and confirmed at Ebenezer Lutheran church and attended DeLange country school. After school he helped his parents on the farm but wondered what else life might offer away from home. As a teenager, he followed his cousin to the Elmer Wevik farm south of Beresford. He picked corn by hand for 3 cents/bushel. He decided to stay in the area, working for various farmers and was also a cook at The White Palace Café in Sioux City, IA.

There was a very good reason to stay around Alcester because this is where his cousin Millie introduced him to a pretty young gal named Doris Hagen, while working on his aunt Hulda & Hank Otten's farm.

the US Navy in February, 1945. He served on the USS Denebola in the Pacific Islands until he was honorably discharged in March 1946.

They moved into Alcester in August 2008. Doris passed away suddenly on June 27, 2012. Ken moved to the Prairie Creek Independent Living in Sioux Falls in 2015 and Assisted Living in 2022. He passed away peacefully, surrounded by family on July 10, 2024 at the Dougherty Hospice House, Sioux Falls, SD.

Ken was very handy and could fix or build many things. He was also a skilled woodworker and carver. Ken & Doris attended many craft shows, displaying & selling his projects. Two of his award-winning carvings were in the SD Senior Traveling Arts Show.

His lifelong love of fishing was topped off with two fishing trips on the Missouri River when he was 100 & 101 years old. On the first trip he was interviewed & appeared on the American Heroes Outdoors TV show, which was aired this spring. Pioneer Certificate

The Sioux Valley Genealogical Society has been issuing PIONEER CERTIFICATES to the descendants of the pioneers who lived in Dakota Territory prior to statehood in November 1889. These beautiful, authentic certificates are suitable for framing. Our Society is attempting to collect information on every one of the pioneers in order to preserve our past history. If you would like to have your pioneer ancestor included, send a self-addressed stamped envelope along with the order form below. You will receive the application along with instructions.
